EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Lennon Miller, who has just signed with Udinese, stands out as the most complete Scottish player of his generation. At just 18, he has already captained his club, earned two caps with Scotland's senior national team, and made 76 first-team appearances, contributing 6 goals and 10 assists. During the 2024–25 season he stood out despite his team's inconsistency, wearing the captain's armband in a League Cup semi-final against Rangers and winning the Scottish PFA Young Player of the Year award.

TECHNICAL ANALYSIS

He is known for his poise under pressure and his ability to make progressive passes from deep positions. This combination of composure in tight areas and range of distribution allows him to influence the game both in build-up and in advancing play through the thirds.

TACTICAL ANALYSIS

His press resistance and high ball retention stand out as core traits, complemented by advanced positional intelligence and a wide passing range. These qualities make him a reliable focal point for his team to build attacks through under pressure, rather than a player who relies solely on individual technique in isolation.

PHYSICAL AND MENTAL ASPECTS

Miller is a natural leader — he is the youngest captain in Motherwell's history — and has already demonstrated this leadership on a big stage, wearing the armband in a League Cup semi-final against Rangers. Earning the Scottish PFA Young Player of the Year award despite his team's inconsistent season further reflects strong mental resilience and individual performance under difficult collective circumstances.

PROJECTION AND CONCLUSION

---

With his move to Udinese already confirmed, Miller enters a new stage of his development in Italian football. If his next step is the right one, it would be no surprise to see him become a key pillar in the midfield of a future Champions League team, given his combination of composure, leadership, and press-resistant profile at such a young age.
